

AAAS 357 : Reading in African American Women History

Explores select topics in the history of African American women from the era of antebellum slavery to the present, using such primary sources as slave narratives, autobiographies, documents and historical monographs. Topics include gender relations in the slave community, the gendered nature of slave resistance and rebellion, the politics of economic emancipation, women's activism and the role of women in the Civil Rights and Black Power movements.

Credits 4

Attributes

Alternate Year

Cross listed

Diversity Domestic

Gender=Thematic

Social Sciences

Upper-Level

US=Geographic

WGSS History

Cross Listed

HIST 357