

AAAS 366 : African American Political Thought

Introducing various dimensions of African American political thought, this course surveys texts in African American intellectual history to examine how they redefine important political concepts such as identity, power, institution, state, citizenship, freedom and community.

Credits 4

Attributes

Cross listed

Social Sciences

Upper-Level

Cross Listed

POLS 366