AAAS 332 : Pan Africanism

In the context of the philosophical paradigm of Afrocentricity, this course traces and interrogates the trans-National solidarity activism of Africans and their descendants in the diaspora (North America, the Caribbean, Latin America, Europe and Asia) towards their political, economic, social and psychological freedom and/or unity from the 19th century to present. Some of its major themes include: Black Nationalism, Black Power, Ethiopianism, Negritude, Rastafarianism and Black Consciousness. The primary instructional methodology is the interpretation and critical analysis of Pan-African literature and films.

Credits 4

Attributes
- Cross listed
- Diversity International
- Appropriate for First-year Students
- Social Sciences
- Upper-Level
- Writing Intensive

Cross Listed
- HIST 332 abd PAGS 332