CS 330: Computational Science

An introduction to Functional Programming, one of the three major programming paradigms. Focuses on well-structured interactive program development using a modern functional programming language. Introduces the formal study of data types and the meaning of programs.

Credits 3

Prerequisites
CS 256: Data Structures

Attributes
Natural Sciences Division
Pre-req
Upper-Level