CS 430: Database Systems

An introduction to database management systems. Database design and development are viewed from the perspective of a user, an application program and the database kernel itself. Focuses primarily on relational and object-oriented data models and related software.

Credits 3

Prerequisites
CS 256: Advanced Programming

Corequisites
CS 310: Algorithms & Data Structures

Attributes
Alternate Year
Required for the major
Pre-req
Upper-Level